Personal Contributions:

These are contributions made by yourself from your after-tax salary or from other savings or from another source on your behalf. You can make these contributions at any time.

Spouse Contributions:

These are contributions made by yourself, on behalf of your spouse into your spouse's account. You can make these contributions at any time, however the government has placed limits on the amount of contributions for which you may claim a rebate.

Salary Sacrifice Contributions:

These are contributions that are paid by your employer from your pre-tax salary. You will need to obtain the agreement of your employer to have salary sacrifice payments made into the superannuation fund on your behalf.

Employer Contributions (Award or SG):

These are compulsory contributions made by an employer for the purpose of meeting their obligations under an industrial award or under the Superannuation Guarantee (SG) legislation.

Other Employer Contributions

These are contributions made where an employer wishes to pay contributions over and above prescribed/award contributions.

Other Contributions:

These are any other contributions not covered by the contribution categories shown to the left. An explanation of some of the various types of contributions is as follows:

Rollover:

These are payments made from another superannuation fund where you have met a condition of release, such as retirement, attaining age 65, etc.

Transfers:

These are transfers of money from other superannuation funds that you have voluntarily requested.

SHASA Payments:

These are payments made from a superannuation collection system administered by the Australian Taxation Office called the Superannuation Holding Accounts Special Account. This collection system was set up to allow employers to contribute superannuation payments when they are unable to find a Fund that provides member protection.

SG Vouchers:

These are payments made by the Australian Taxation Office (ATO). They consist of late Superannuation Guarantee payments that an employer has had to make to the ATO for failing to make SG payments by the due date.

RSA Payment:

These are payments made from a Retirement Savings Account (RSA).

*Tax File Number Notification

We are required to tell you the following things before you provide your tax file number to the trustee of your superannuation fund. Your TFN is confidential, and you should know the following things before you decide to provide it:

- We can collect your tax file number under the Superannuation (Industry) Supervision Act 1993.
- If you do provide your tax file number to us, we will use it only for legal purposes. This includes finding or identifying your superannuation benefits where other information is insufficient, calculating tax on any eligible termination payment you may be entitled to, and providing information to the Commissioner of Taxation (amongst other things to enable the Commissioner of Taxation to assess any surcharge payable on superannuation contributions made by or for you). These purposes may change in the future.
- You are not legally obliged to provide your tax file number. However, if you do not provide your TFN to your superannuation fund, it will be unable to accept any member voluntary contributions from you, and any contributions received from your employer will be subject to additional taxation (see above).
- If you provide your tax file number to us, we may provide it to the trustee of another superannuation fund or to an RSA provider where that RSA provider or trustee is to receive your transferred benefits in the future. We won't pass your tax file number to such trustee or RSA provider if you tell us in writing that you don't want us to do that. We may also give it to the Commissioner of Taxation. Otherwise your tax file number will be treated as confidential.
